Initially, Akaash wrote two Critter classes and Nicholas wrote two Critter classes. We both worked on the rest of the project. Then, both of us sat down for debugging and both of us helped with debugging each other's function. Apart from making preliminary drafts of this team plan and code structure (2 hours), we also met for 10 hours to code and debug the project. We used a GitHub repository to share java files and debug each other's code. The final testing was done together.
